The Spirit makes us divine again

Pentecost, Vigil Mass: Gen 11:1-9; Rom 8:22-27; Jn 7:37-39

Pentecost, Day: Acts 2:1-11; 1 Cor 12:3b-7, 12-13; Jn 20:19-23

English writer Rudyard Kipling tells this legend about man's godhead.

In the beginning, man claimed before the gods that he, too, was some sort of god. When they reviewed the evidence, they found that man's claim was good, but being jealous, they stole away his godhead with the intent to hide it where man would never find it again.

But if they hid it on earth or among themselves, man would do everything he can until it was found. They didn't know what to do. The wisest of them volunteered to hide it. He told them: "I have hidden it where man will never look. It is hidden in man himself."

The book of Genesis tells us that man lost his "godhead" when, in his pride, he wanted to be like God. From that time on, the history of man became a difficult & frustrating search to find himself; he became a restless being, unable to find rest.

Unlike the gods in Kipling's legend, God really cares for men & women, for they are the fullest of his creatures, made in his image & likeness. That is why the Word of God became man - to be a brother to humanity & help it recover its lost friendship with God. This is the mission of Jesus, accomplished through his passion, death & resurrection.

The Pentecost marks the restoration of that friendship. The Holy Spirit given to the apostles makes it possible for them to be called sons of God. He is some sort of a "godhead" inside man, the spirit of adoption through which man cries to God, "Abba/ Father!" (Rom 8:15).

The risen Jesus fulfills the promise of definite restoration & life-giving with his gift of the Holy Spirit. In the Gospel according to John, Jesus, like the creating God in the Old Testament, "breathes" on the disciples & empowers them to forgive sins through the presence of the Holy Spirit. This is the "second life" given to the world: a new people of God, the Church, emerges & becomes a sign of unity among men & acts in the name of Jesus to effect salvation, to create a new brotherhood among races.

Come, Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of your faithful & kindle in them the fire of your love.

A Prayer for Healing Victims of Abuse

Holy Spirit, comforter of hearts, heal your people's wounds and transform brokenness into wholeness.
Grant us the courage and wisdom,
humility and grace, to act with justice.
Breathe wisdom into our prayers and labors.
Grant that all harmed by abuse
may find peace in justice.
We ask this through Christ,
our Lord. Amen.
